WASHINGTON, June 16.—The Senate to-day sock up the Utah bill. Mr. Brown of Georgia said that Mr. Hoar of Massachusetts had charged him with having for the greater part is life sustained an institution which prohibited legal marriages among a part of the people of Georgia. This was a thrust at Georgia for having held slaves. While he would ant now restore slaver, if he could do so by excellent points connected with the somety and willination of the slavery pariod. The system of slavery to which ar. Hoar had called attenderived much of its slavery from that State. Mr. Brown read from Elliott's "History of New to show that the people of Massachusetts bought and held as slaves Scotchmen, Irishmen, Indians, negroes, and mulattoes, and that they sent cargoes of rum to Africa.

end that they sent cargoes of rum to Africa, exchanging the rum for slaves, some of whom they sold. The charter of Georgia originally obtated alavery, and while Massachusetts was mporting slaves and selling them for profit teorgia was refusing to hold them. Finally feorgia dopted alavery, purchasing part of the slaves from Massachusetts.

Mr. Hoar had said there was a large number of relatioes to be accounted for in the South.

Mr. Brown read from various historical works on show that large numbers of mulattoes were always found in Massachusetts during the time that slavery existed in that State, and when, in 1788, Massachusetts passed an act appling from the State all negroes, the courts held that the act applied also to mulattoes, it remed a little unnatural to expel the mulations, not that they were akin to the people of Massachusetts, but possibly because climatic influence had changed their color until they were more in the likeness of the good people of that State. The cold, bleaching wind of Massachusetts, or some other cause, had modified the shony color of the African in that that, and had infused a compound of yellow, so that they are no longer called negroes, but mulattoes.

After these mulattoes had been expelled from no that they are no longer called negroes, but mulatices.

After these mulattoes had been expelled from flasseshusetts, they doubtless took refuge in the Bouthern States, and their descendants there have multiplied, still transmitting the modified color inherited from elimatic influence in Massachusetts. The influence of the matter had again been noticeable after many rears. About twenty or twenty-two years ago in means cold wave had swept down from flassachusetts and other Northern States over the South, as frigid and inhospitable as the dreary, piercing winds of Massachusetts, and it bleached large numbers of very young children of the African race and made them mulations.

On the conclusion of Mr. Brown's remarks, Mr. Hoar entered, and remarked that it was hardly necessary to answer what Mr. Brown and said, because he (Mr. Hoar) had looked in while Mr. Brown was speaking, and did not see that a single human being was listening to his neach. Mr. Brown replied that the country would Mr. Brown's amendment permitting divorce only for one cause in places where the United States has exclusive jurisdiction was rejected.

MIS GUN DANGEROUS AT BOTH MUDE.

mer McCouth Killed the Bear, but was Misself Kicked Into Vaccasionsess, PORT JERVIS, June 16 .- One day last week John McCouth of Bethel, Sullivan county, looked out of his front door and saw a big bear walking leisurely by in the road. McCouth's gun was loaded with bird shot. He fired both barrels at the bear, which stopped, looked back at McCouth, and then proceeded on its journey. Then McCouth charged his gun with a double load of powder and three builtets. The hext day a neighbor of McCouth's saw the bear tramping around in his rye field. He sent his boy out with a dog to drive bruin away. The boy set the dog on the bear, and it left the field and started back toward McCouth's. The latter was wreding in his garden in the afternoon. He heard a peculiar anort, and, looking up, saw the bear standing a rod or so away, in a bean patch, watching McCouth's movements. The farmer went into his house and brought out his gun. The bear remained nawing about in the bean patch. McCouth fired. His wife was looking on from the door. The bear and McCouth both fell, the bear in its tracks, and the farmer some feet back of where he had stood. Neither farmer nor bear made any effort to rise. Mrs. McCouth fran out to her husband. Blood was atreaming from his nose, and he was unconscious. She brought him to by dashing water in his face. The bear was dead, shot through the lungs. The rebound of the gun had been so great, owing to the heavy charge, that it had "kicked" McCouth into unconsciousness and dislocated his shoulder. The bear was thin, but very large. The skin was nurchased by John Lavton, a New York drummer, for $9, enough to pay McCouth's dector bill. gooble load of powder and three bullets. The
